

Student Voices Listening Questions

TSA to Start More Intensive Pat Downs for Fliers

1. Some feel the new, very intensive pat-downs required by the Transportation Security Administration
 - a. should be used on every airline passenger.
 - b. are body searches that are way too personal.
 - c. should be stopped and all must go through the scanners.
 - d. should not be used on women.

2. The X-Ray scanners now in place at many airports take pictures which
 - a. can detect any evidence of bombs.
 - b. are revealing passengers without their clothes on.
 - c. are used only to detect guns.
 - d. are only required on international flights.

3. The TSA agents are now allowed to frisk you and
 - a. touch any area that is not considered private.
 - b. look for metal or explosives in your luggage.
 - c. touch body parts once off limits.
 - d. demand a complete strip search if they deem necessary.

4. When a TSA agent uses his hands to pat you down, he is now allowed to
 - a. place his hands under your clothes.
 - b. use the front of his hands.
 - c. use only the back of his hands.
 - d. touch only certain parts of your body.

5. For women, TSA agents now search
 - a. for anything that might be hidden in a bra.
 - b. only the outer clothing.
 - c. every article of clothing from the waist up.
 - d. every article of clothing with metal detectors.

6. An expert in security revealed that with this new enhanced security, the Underwear Bomber
 - a. would have been stopped at the gate.
 - b. would have been selected for a strip search.
 - c. would have evaded capture.
 - d. would have set off the scanner's alarms.

7. Several passenger groups feel the new security procedures are
 - a. a welcome change.
 - b. unnecessary and intrusive
 - c. too expensive
 - d. too time consuming.